

Graves

By Thomas McNulty, Curranure, Foxford, Co. Mayo

Graves

There is a high stone in Martin Long's field in Brohallach. The field is along the Foxforde road.

The stone is called: The Giants Stone and some people call it the Giants Grave.

The stone is about nine feet in from the road and there is another smaller stone standing up in the fence. The large stone is about five foot in height and about a foot and a half wide. The stone is slanting to a thin top.

The Small stone is about three feet in height and two feet wide and about six inches thick.

Long ago there was a Giant buried in that place and the people put the big stone over his head for a headstone and the small stone was put at his feet.

If there was ever a Giant buried there he would be about nine feet high.